Student assessment services are available in areas of academic aptitude, career counseling, reading, general ability, vocational interests, personality, English, and cognitive ability. Evaluations are conducted by using standardized testing correction methods and technology.

Assessment services to company personnel or other institutions are also available on request.

Psychometric Material

We offer psychology and teaching professionals a wide variety of instruments for measurement and evaluation in areas of intelligence, personality, specific general skills, values, and motivation and interest.

Orientation Program for Higher Education

(POES, for its initials in Spanish)

UVG through the Orientation Program for Advanced Studies (POES) provides vocational guidance service for high school students.

It develops from the national program for teacher training (CETT - CA / DR) in Central America. Its purpose is to achieve excellence in reading and writing for children in first to third grade through an intensive teacher training program.

The initiative supports countries with teaching challenges and teachers working in poor urban and rural areas.
